Conversations

Conversation 1: Divayth Fyr & Alfe Fyr

Divayth Fyr: Alfe, dear, could you fetch me more soul gems from below?

Alfe Fyr: You said that I could have an hour to myself!

Divayth Fyr: Yes, but I did not need the soul gems then.

Alfe Fyr: Well, I'm holding you to your word – get the gems yourself.

Divayth Fyr: Oh, Alfe, why must you be so difficult...

Conversation 2: Divayth Fyr & Alfe Fyr

Alfe Fyr: Divayth, don't you ever tire of this Corprus research?

Divayth Fyr: Oh course not, dear. Corprus is a fascinating magical conundrum. It is like nothing else on Nirn, and I would gladly devote another 4000 years to unraveling its secrets.

Alfe Fyr: Well, I think there are many more interesting varieties of magic, with more practical applications.

Divayth Fyr: And that's why Uupse, and not you, helps me with the Corprus research.

Conversation 3: Beyte Fyr & Delte Fyr

Delte Fyr: Beyte, I wish that you would tell me when you plan to make extravagant meals.

Beyte Fyr: But why? I love to surprise everyone!

Delte Fyr: The problem is that you burn through our supplies so quickly, and I never know when something's gone until it's missed.

Beyte Fyr: I'm sorry, Delte. I'll try to remember to tell you if anything is about to run out.

Conversation 4: Beyte Fyr & Delte Fyr

Beyte Fyr: Delte, do you think Divayth has a favorite?

Delte Fyr: You mean a favorite wife? I don't think so. Divayth's a fair mer, and we all serve him in our own ways. He needs us.

Beyte Fyr: I wonder... does a 4000-year-old wizard really need anyone?

Conversation 5: Uupse Fyr & Yagrum Bagarn

Uupse Fyr: Come Yagrum, it's time for your daily examination.

Yagrum Bagarn: Why must you patronize me, Uupse? Nothing has changed, and this always makes me feel like a child.

Uupse Fyr: Now stop that Yagrum. You're not a child, but a patient, and it's my duty to look after you. Besides, what if something has changed? Divayth would be very disappointed if I missed anything.

Conversation 6: Uupse Fyr & Yagrum Bagarn

Yagrum Bagarn: I can still see them: lofty spires, deep halls, great works of magic and craftsmanship the likes of which Nirn will never see again.

Uupse Fyr: Thinking of the past, Yagrum?

Yagrum Bagarn: Yes. My body has become a ruin, but my mind is as sharp as ever. It gives me comfort, recalling those times.

Uupse Fyr: Divayth says that memories are good, as long as we don't dwell on them.

Yagrum Bagarn: He would know. Lord Fyr was there too, after all. And here we are, two old mer, perhaps the only mortals to remember such sights...

*Conversation 7: Vistha-Kai & Beyte Fyr

Beyte Fyr: Good day, Vistha-Kai! I've brought you some scrib jerky.

Vistha-Kai: This one is most thankful.

Beyte Fyr: It's the least I can do, since you're stuck in this dreary place. I don't know how you and Uupse can stand being in the Corprusarium day after day.

Vistha-Kai: Lord Fyr must have someone to protect the inmates. This one takes the lord's projects and interests to heart.

This conversation assumes that Beyte will enter the Corprusarium at some point.

Conversation 8: Divayth Fyr & Alfe Fyr

Alfe Fyr: Have you ever thought about taking on another apprentice?

Divayth Fyr: That depends, my dear. I'm not interested in ordinary pupils, and it's so difficult to find someone with that special spark. Aryon was exceptional, and he's moved on to great things. It might be a hundred years before I come across someone like that again.

Alfe Fyr: Well, I hope it's sooner than that. An apprentice would give me more time to work on my own projects.

Divayth Fyr: Oh, Alfe...

Single Lines

Single Lines 1: Vistha-Kai

Vistha-Kai: No good thieves in ages... this one could use the sport.

Vistha-Kai: The inmates are louder than usual today...

Single Lines 2: Divayth Fyr

Divayth Fyr: Hmm, that could be a new development...

Divayth Fyr: Fascinating. I'd better make a note of that.

Divayth Fyr: I wonder what Yagrum would say about this?

Divayth Fyr: The properties are innate, that much is certain.

Divayth Fyr: So many questions still unanswered...

Single Lines 3: Alfe Fyr

Alfe Fyr: If only he would listen...

Alfe Fyr: What about me? I have needs too.

Single Lines 4: Delte Fyr

Delte Fyr: The prices for Dwemer artifacts are getting ridiculous.

Delte Fyr: More inmates than ever... yet another increase in expenses.

Single Lines 5: Tanusea Veloth

Tanusea Veloth: What horrible noises. Will I really become like them?

Tanusea Veloth: When will the serjo see me?

Tanusea Veloth: So different from Vivec...

Single Lines 6: Delyna Mandas

Delyna Mandas: Have they forgotten about me? [When imprisoned]

Delyna Mandas: I hope that father is doing well. [When imprisoned]

Delyna Mandas: The sky! It's been forever since I've seen it! [Outside, after being rescued]

Single Lines 7: Uupse Fyr

Uupse Fyr: I wonder if Yagrum would like it if Divayth visited more often?

Uupse Fyr: The number of patients keeps growing. I wish I had more help.

*Single Lines 8: Yagrum Bagarn

Yagrum Bagarn: I always thought this was a solid cavern. I could do wonders with my crafters of old...

Yagrum Bagarn: [coughing]

Yagrum Bagarn: If we had just known more about mythopoeic forces at the time...

Yagrum also has unused audio from the original game that could work here. See the UESP.
