

Vivec Temple Canton – Hall of Justice

Hall of Justice
Name	Race	Class	Notes
Melvure Rindu	Dunmer	Witchhunter	Temple, Ordinator.
Ordinator Barracks
Nalmila Thelas	Dunmer	Crusader	Temple, Ordinator.
Nedeni Tenim	Dunmer	Witchhunter	Temple, Ordinator.
Nervana Verelas	Dunmer	Crusader	Temple, Ordinator.
Radene Hlaalu	Dunmer	Ordinator Guard	Temple, Ordinator. Seems to be the highest-ranking Ordinator in the barracks.
Office of the Watch
Elam Andas	Dunmer	Crusader	Temple, Ordinator. Involved in the Vivec killings quest.
Tarer Braryn	Dunmer	Crusader	Temple, Ordinator. Suffers from a curse courtesy of Trebonius Artorius.
Justice Offices
Berel Sala	Dunmer	Ordinator	Temple, Ordinator. Leader of the Ordinators. Rather fanatical.
Suryr Athones	Dunmer	Ordinator	Temple, Ordinator. Hates the Legion.
Aroa Nethalen	Dunmer	Ordinator	Temple, Ordinator.
Felmena Falavel	Dunmer	Ordinator	Temple, Ordinator.
Secret Library
Brerayne Raloran	Dunmer	Pilgrim	Temple. Probably the librarian/archivist of the Secret Library.

Hall of Justice (lobby area)

Conversations

Conversation 1: Melvure Rindu & Ordinator

Melvure Rindu: Do you think any real danger could come here?

Ordinator: What do you mean?

Melvure Rindu: Well, this is the headquarters of the most powerful military order on Vvardenfell. Would anyone dare attack?

Ordinator: That kind of attitude is what leads to disaster. We must have vigilance above all else. Now back to your duty, and stop distracting me from mine.

Single Lines

Single Lines 1: Melvure Rindu

Melvure Rindu: Guard duty in a building full of soldiers... such a waste.

Melvure Rindu: I just want some action. Why won't they let me transfer to Ghostgate?

Ordinator Barracks

Conversation 1: Nalmila Thelas & Nedeni Tenim

Nalmila Thelas: What do you think of the talk about blood vampires returning to Vvardenfell?

Nedeni Tenim: I think there's something to it. Actually – just between you and me – I've killed one.

Nalmila Thelas: Really? That's hard to believe.

Nedeni Tenim: I'm trained to deal with the undead. This one was sneaking around in the Foreign Quarter Underworks. I don't think it was very powerful, as vampires go, but it was still one of the toughest fights of my life.

Nalmila Thelas: Figures it was the Foreign Quarter. If those cursed abominations have returned, the outlanders are probably why.

Conversation 2: Nervana Verelas & Radene Hlaalu

Nervana Verelas: Why did you decide to commit your life to fighting for the Temple, muthsera?

Radene Hlaalu: I saw corruption and decadence in the Great Houses, especially my own. The Temple seemed like the only means of preserving the traditions and culture of our people.

Nervana Verelas: Seemed? Has your opinion changed?

Radene Hlaalu: Of course not... but even the Temple is not immune to corruption. It's for that reason that we must fight as hard as we can, for Almsivi and for all our people.

Single Lines

Single Lines 1: Nalmila Thelas

Nalmila Thelas: Finally off duty.

Nalmila Thelas: Is that a chip in my mace?

Single Lines 2: Nedeni Tenim

Nedeni Tenim: We need more security in the canton underworks... it's our weakest link.

Single Lines 3: Nervana Verelas

Nervana Verelas: [praying] Almsivi, guide my mind in service to you...

Nervana Verelas: Maybe Radene can give me some advice.

Single Lines 4: Radene Hlaalu

Radene Hlaalu: [praying] Vivec, help me to follow your perfect example...

Radene Hlaalu: A true purpose, that's what we must maintain.

Office of the Watch

Conversations

Conversation 1: Elam Andas & Tarer Braryn. Only before completion of the Main Quest.

Elam Andas: I was just looking at a recent report from the Ghostgate.

Tarer Braryn: Has the situation improved at all?

Elam Andas: No. If anything, it's worse than before. The Enemy's forces seem to keep growing in numbers and strength, while ours do not.

Tarer Braryn: We'll just have to keep trusting in the power of Almsivi. They've held the barrier for thousands of years. I have faith that they can hold it for thousands more.

Elam Andas: I pray that faith is enough.

Conversation 2: Elam Andas & Tarer Braryn

Tarer Braryn: I feel like the Ordinator's duties as guards have been neglected lately.

Elam Andas: I agree. Crime is on the rise in certain areas of the city, and troublesome places in certain cantons are not watched as heavily as they should be. But Berel is more interested in chasing heretics.

Tarer Braryn: Law enforcement is an important part of our duties, though. Perhaps we could submit a proposal for more resources?

Elam Andas: And risk angering Berel? No thanks. I'd like to keep my position.

Single Lines

Single Lines 1: Elam Andas

Elam Andas: Where did I put those records?

Elam Andas: Another murder, and I just don't have the resources... [Only before Mysterious Killing in Vivec begins]

Elam Andas: Brerayne's complaining about the noise... the usual.

Single Lines 2: Tarer Braryn

Tarer Braryn: This should be in order. I'll send it for approval.

Tarer Braryn: [in anguish] I can't take it... I can barely work! [Only before A Rash of Insults is completed]

Justice Offices

Conversations

Conversation 1: Suryin Athones & Aroa Nethalen

Aroa Nethalen: Why are you collecting all this information on the Legion?

Suryin Athones: Because it is composed of heathen outlanders. Although they claim to uphold our interests and laws, the Legion's one true loyalty is to the Empire. Their influence on the population must be kept in check, and to do that I must learn everything I can about them.

Aroa Nethalen: I hope you know what you're doing. From what I hear, the Legion is merciless with those who try to get in its way.

Suryin Athones: Sometimes you have to take risks – for the sake of the Temple and our people.

Conversation 2: Berel Sala & Felmena Falavel

Felmena Falavel: I have new information regarding the suspected heretics.

Berel Sala: Good. Is it enough to justify taking action?

Felmena Falavel: I think so, sera. If we are discrete I believe that we should be able to capture them without causing a scene.

Berel Sala: Yes, that would be best. Here is the list of the Ordinators who are to be given the duty. Gradually increase patrols in the area, and then move in quickly and quietly. I expect a full report once the heretics have been taken to the Ministry.

Conversation 3: Aroa Nethalen & Berel Sala. Only before Mehra Milo is imprisoned in the Ministry of Truth.

Berel Sala: What is your report on the surveillance of the priestess?

Aroa Nethalen: The Ordinators haven't noticed anything specific that we can condemn her for. She's still acting suspiciously, though. I'm told that she shows obvious signs of nervousness when near our Ordinators.

Berel Sala: Hmm, interesting. Continue to keep a close eye on her. My sources suspect that she is a Dissident, and under no circumstances must those heretics be allowed to walk free, especially this close to the seat of the Temple.

Aroa Nethalen: Understood, sera.

Single Lines

Single Lines 1: Berel Sala

Berel Sala: We should still be able to make it a heresy charge...

Berel Sala: The Order of Inquisition needs to try cases more quickly. We only have so much room.

Berel Sala: Still missing some key information...

Single Lines 2: Suryn Athones

Suryn Athones: Such corrupting influences...

Suryn Athones: If only I had more power...

Suryn Athones: They're no better than savage mercenaries.

Single Lines 3: Felmena Falavel

Felmena Falavel: Hmm, that's not important. This, however...

Felmena Falavel: Where did I put those notes?

Single Lines 4: Aroa Nethalen

Aroa Nethalen: Sometimes I wonder...

Secret Library

Single Lines

Single Lines 1: Brerayne Raloran

Brerayne Raloran: What is that outlander doing here!?

Brerayne Raloran: How can I work with that racket!

Brerayne Raloran: Are they letting just anyone in these days?